Madawaska offers pool sessions for adventurous beginning paddlers

TORONTO, Ontario – Madawaska Kanu Centre offers Learn to Kayak courses in the warm water of a swimming pool this spring.

The sessions themselves will be held in swimming pools - including a wave pool in Ottawa - over the months of April and May. One or two evening specials are being offered in both Toronto and Ottawa and cost between $95 and $150 with all instruction and necessary equipment included.

“This is a great opportunity for someone to come in, learn the basics and find out if you like being in a kayak,” said Madawaska CEO and instructor Claudia Van Wijk.

Madawaska Kanu Centre has been the premier whitewater canoeing and kayaking facility in Canada since it was established in 1972. Developed by Olympic kayakers and patterned after the European ski school concept, Madawaska features national and world champion kayakers working as instructors, world-class cuisine, a safe environment on the Madawaska River and weeks dedicated to instruction for women, families and seniors.
